Healed by a Touch

"And a woman was there who had been subject to bleeding for twelve years, but no one could heal her. She came up behind him and touched the edge of his cloak, and immediately her bleeding stopped." Luke 8:43-44

"When they had crossed over, they landed at Gennesaret. And when the men of that place recognized Jesus, they sent word to all the surrounding country. People brought all their sick to him and begged him to let the sick just touch the edge of his cloak, and all who touched it were healed."

Matthew 14:34-36

Often in Jesus' ministry he healed people by touching. In one instance he spat into the dust and made a muddy mixture; then he put the mud on the blind man's eyes and told him to wash in the Pool of Siloam. In another he touched the bier of the widow's only son. In another, the daughter of a ruler of the synagogue was resurrected by Jesus' physical touch. In other situations of healing and resurrection the act of touching is remote, it is spiritual and not physical. The lame man is told to "take up his bed and walk". The centurion's servant is healed without being in Jesus' presence. Lazarus, who has been dead for a couple of days, is called forth from the tomb.

One might raise a question about the healing power of the cloak of Jesus. Did such healing power reside in the cloak of Jesus? Could owning that piece of cloth negate the need to ever have medical tests, get treatment for aches and pains, or get vaccines? The Gospels record that crowds followed Jesus and gathered wherever He was. They sought healing. The Gospels record instances of healing that resulted from just touching His cloak.

The key to all of these instances of healing is not magic power in the cloak or even in Jesus' hands, fingers or words. The people went to Him because they believed. They had faith. Maybe their faith was not theologically correct and maybe it was not "Touch" continued on page 4

We are looking at different passages in Genesis and in the Gospels to discover and remember what the Bible is, what it said to contemporary readers, what it means, and what it says to us, especially for our faith journey.

All are welcome, and all questions are welcome, so that together we might encourage and challenge one another on the joyful and sometimes hard road that is Christian discipleship.

Campanology

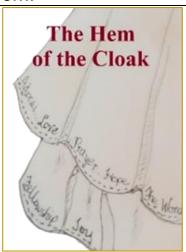

includes lunch.

Campanology (from Late Latin campana, "bell"; and Greek $-\lambda$ o γ (α , -logia) is the study of bells. It encompasses the technology of bells – how they are cast, tuned, rung, and sounded – as well as the history, methods, and traditions of bell-ringing as an art. It is common to collect together a set of tuned bells and treat the whole as one musical instrument. Such collections – such as a Flemish carillon, a Russian zvon, or an English "ring of bells" used for change ringing – have their own practices and challenges. Campanology is likewise the study of perfecting such instruments and composing and performing music for them.

fully developed. Whose is? Jesus encountered people who needed healing and restoration every day of the week, including (gasp!) the Sabbath, and He healed and restored them. The woman in the Luke 8 story above is told that her faith has healed her. In other healing stories, Jesus asks the person if he or she has faith that He can heal. Where there was no faith among the people healing did not occur.

Almighty God, give us faith to know in our spirits and in our hearts that You are able to do all things, and that you will heal us of our physical and mental and spiritual woes in this world or in the next. Amen
